More than A Century Old.

Atlanta, Oct. 23.—At Nannie, a post-office village in this State, Jeff King, colored, the oldest man in the State, if not in the world, died yesterday. He was 128 years old, according to authentic reports. The story, as told by Jeff King, is that he was born near Richmond Va, in 1760, where he belonged to a family named Carteret. When ten years of age, Jeff was bewitched by an old white woman who lived in the neighborhood. After many incantations the spell was broken and, the witch, angered that she should have been told in her influence over the child, hurled at him the imprecation that he might live until she paid him back for her disappointment. She died shortly after, and Jeff when his years had passed the limit allotted to man, often recalled her words, and felt that he was living on and on, until she could return to be avenged: Jeff, when sixty years of age, was bought by a Mr. King, of North Carolina, in whose possession he remained for forty years. He was then sold into Georgia, where at the age of 100, he lived to become a free man. He has had wives without number, and his children were so numerous that he never attempted to count them. Three years ago he married a likely young negress of twenty, and by her became the father of two more children. The people around Nannie who have known him for years, profess implicit faith in the great age claimed by him. It is said that the record kept by the King family bear out his assertions as to his age.

A Disciple of the Whitechapel.

Columbia, Oct. 23.—A horrible murder was reported here last night at half past 11 o'clock. In a mess, mystery and class of victims it resembles the Whitechapel murder. At the hour named, those living in the vicinity of Trinity Episcopal church heard three shots. It is the most orderly portion of the city. The moon made it bright as day. No significance was attached to the shooting until this morning, when the sexton going to the church found the dead body of Claudia Harris, one of the most degraded of fallen women, at the church door.

Three balls had entered the breast one penetrating the heart. The burning powder had ignited the bosom of the woman's dress and burned it away

The murder was committed within ten steps of the corner and in twenty yards of occupied houses. There was no outcry of any kind, and the first shot must have been fatal. The police are utterly at sea, and no clue to the murder or motive for the crime can be suggested unless it is that some one wishes to imitate, in part, at least, the London murders.

Editor Publisher's Suicide.

Boston, Oct. 21.—The fact that R. M. Pulsifer, President of the Herald Publishing Company, took his own life is admitted today. He took laudanum. Evidence found in the room with the body show the cause of death was impending financial disaster. He had almost all his capital in Southern enterprises, in which he had great faith—railroads in Florida and Georgia—mica, gold and iron mines in the latter State, street railway in Charleston, S.C., and pine land in North Carolina. All these would realize handsomely in the future, but if put up to force sale would bring nothing.

His Northern enterprises, the principal of which is a gigantic steam heating concern, just started here demanded a large outlay. Mr. Pulsifer had mortgaged everything up to the candle, but did not realize enough. To sell would be the loss of all invested, because it would not bring the amount of the mortgage. So in despair, with only the alternative of an assignment, he sought death. His family, reared in luxury, will hardly realize a dollar after settlement.

A New Motor.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Yesterday a test was made at Pullman of a new street railway motor. It is the invention of W. H. Patton, of Pueblo, Col.

A gas engine is used, which manufactures automatically by one stroke of the piston the gas required for the following stroke. This gas is made from gasoline, oil or crude petroleum, and mixed with air and exploded in the cylinder; its action is similar to that of steam. After the piston-head is forced back the products of the explosion—hot air—leaves the cylinder of the engine through an exhaust pipe.

Yesterday's test was made with an eight-horse power engine. From the engine power was transmitted to friction wheels—one of paper, the other of iron—by means of rope cable.

The inventor claims that it is capable of a speed of fifteen miles an hour at a cost of less than $1 per day; that it is cleanly, being without smoke, and noiseless.

CURIOUS THINGS OF LIFE.

A hornet flew into a brass band horn and down the player's throat in Carlisle, Pa. In Cleveland, O., there is a lady who is totally paralyzed by every thunder storm. She recovers when the storm ceases.

A swimming dress, to enable the swimmer to blow up mines and hostile boats, has been tried in the German navy. It is a sort of modified Paul Boyton affair.

The fan which the Bonapartist ladies gave to Princess Letitia as a wedding gift cost $1,100. Of this Detaille, who painted it, received $800 and the jeweler £200.

Mormons are flocking into Wyoming in great numbers, and it is said by The Chicago Herald that two years hence they will control the local elections in the western section.

A Pennsylvania horse has been discovered that will eat a double handful of the strongest kind of chewing tobacco. He also has a remarkable appetite for bologna sausage and hot peanuts.

British Columbia Indians are coming over to Washington territory to help gather the hop crop. The advance fleet of canoes contained about 300 men, women and children. The crop is extraordinarily large.

A new disease has broken out among the grapevines of the Santa Ana and San Gabriel valleys of California. It is termed the sapwood, and the cause of it no one knows. The vines begin to wither and in a short time die.

Two young Germans in Berlin fought a duel with tricycles. Starting at 300 yards apart, they charged full tilt against each other, with slight injury to themselves and serious hurts to their machines. Their honor was satisfied.

A weed recently discovered is called the laughing plant. When eaten in the green state, taken as a tincture or smoked as tobacco it is said to produce almost hysterical laughter in some cases, and always results in cheerful ideas.

A soap mine has been discovered near Crawfordville, Ga. It is said to make as good a lather as manufactured soap, and to be fully equal to it in cleansing powers. It is exactly the color of turpentine soap and has a peculiar smell.

The "Execution bell," which was tolled from the Church of St. Sepulcher at every execution at Newgate, used to be supported by a fund, which has now been devoted to other purposes. The vestry will soon have to decide whether they will keep it up or not.

Rafael, an old gypsy, has asked the emperor of Austria to invest him with the dignity of king of the gypsies, because he can prove his direct descent from King Pharaoh. He promises to make the gypsies cease their vagrant habits and become orderly people, fit to enter the army.

In order to fumigate the mails which leave Jacksonville, Fla., they are emptied into a large box which has a wire bottom, and brimstone or other disinfectants are burned under the box from eight to twelve hours. All the smoke from the burning matter has to pass through the mails.

A citizen of Washington, Ga., has carefully preserved the coat in which he was married twenty-five years ago. He says it is his mascot, and that if he wears it when about to engage in any new speculation, make any investment or take any important step in life he is invariably successful.

There have been twenty-six suicides from the Clifton bridge in England in the twenty-four years since it was built. The jump is 250 feet, and death is presumably easy, which accounts for the popularity of the route. The last person who went over it was a young man who was to be married in a week.

A novel electric railway is undergoing construction in a suburb of St. Paul. The railroad is an elevated structure, and the cars are hung below it, close to the street level. They hang from sets of wheels, taking their power from the tracks, which are charged with electricity. A speed of from eight to ten miles an hour is aimed for the cars.

A passenger on a west bound train from Chicago hid his money in one of his shoes on retiring for the night, and then placed the shoe and its mate in the aisle, near his berth. A porter, having subsequently blackened the shoes and found the "hidden treasure," returned it to the owner, who is said to have demanded a light so that he could count the money and see if the finder had taken any.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Alexander Dumas is the richest writer in the world.

Mr. Abel, the English professional, has accepted an offer of $5,000 to go to India and coach the parsons in cricket.

Alphonse Daudet is going to London to make arrangements for a satisfactory English translation of his novels.

Charles Mackay, the English song writer, is sick with old age and financial distress. Lord Tennyson is getting up a fund for him.

The young Emperor of China is to be married on the twenty-fourth day of the First Moon in 1889, and the event will cost the National treasury $5,500,000.

President Cleveland has appointed professor Arthur J. Stone, of the University of Notre Dame, New York, as scientific expert to the Paris Exposition of 1889.

During the Prince of Wales' recent visit to Homburg he initiated some wheelbarrow races, with ladies in the barrows trundled along by the highest English nobility.

Dr. J. B. Billings, of the United States army, and president of the recent medical congress in Washington, has received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Edinburgh.

Texas will furnish this year the oldest voter in the United States. His name is Richard Kidd, and he is 115 years of age. Mr. Kidd's mind is clear and his strength remarkable for one of his great age.

Lord Wolsley tells of a soldier who was the bravest man he ever knew. He was so lazy that in battle he would expose himself to the most imminent danger rather than move ten paces to a place of safety.

A comparison of church incomes shows that that of Dr. John Hall, in New York, is the largest, having an income of nearly $150,000. The next largest, Dr. Whyte's, Free St. George's, Edinburgh. Its income is $50,000.
